our fall special

We have an engaging new addition to our roster of titles:

The Dirty Seven: Ladies Beware!

The Dirty Seven are the men, who because of their underlying "me-ism," are dead-ends as mates. Its author, June Marshall, notes that many men are great mates, and that the book is not about male-bashing. It is about character traits that are impossible to live with, why they are impossible, and what to do about them. She will follow it with The Dirty Seven Sisters: Men Beware!, which depicts the types of females to avoid if a man wants a loving mate, because lots of women are no angels either!

Here are just a few testimonials to date:

"Written with great insight and humor in an easy conversational style that propels you through the book. I couldn't put it down."

Edith Eustace, Founder of Poets Wednesday

"As I read about these seven highly inappropriate mate-types, I imagined that this is the book Steven Covey might write if he were Roseanne Barr."

Douglas Bush, DMD, Chester, NJ

editorial flash

Yes - we do have friends all over the world. Within a few hours of the terrible attacks on thousands of innocent civilians in New York City and the Pentagon, we received this message from a business partner in India:

"We are deeply concerned with the tragic happenings in the US. Our thoughts are with the people of America and their families.

We the people of India send our heartfelt condolences to those families who have lost their near and dear ones. We wish all those injured a fast and stable recovery to take America to further progress and prosperity.

For and on behalf of our entire team,

Kumar Parameswaran

Senior Executive-International Marketing"

A deluge of e-mail carrying, in essence, the same message has also reached our clients and suppliers.

In our little corner of the physical and Internet worlds we mourn, pray and work even more diligently, so we can also contribute more to the relief and reconstruction efforts under way.

Thank you all for standing by us.
